

Banana bread

A soft banana loaf for breakfast, tea time or any time.

PREP ~15 min 45–50 MIN BAKE

TOTAL ~1 hr 15 min MAKES ~8–10 slices

Prep, total and portions are estimates.

Ingredients

3 ripe bananas

½ cup unsweetened plant-based milk

⅓ cup extra virgin olive oil

¼ cup maple syrup or agave

2 tbsp ground flax seed

2 cups all-purpose flour (or oat flour for gluten-free)

1 tbsp baking powder

1 tsp vanilla extract

¼ tsp sea salt

¼ tsp cinnamon powder

The original method also mentions nutmeg, but gives no amount. Add it only after checking with the author.

Method

Preheat the oven to 177°C and grease a loaf pan with oil or plant-based butter.

Mash two bananas in a large bowl. Stir in the olive oil, maple syrup, vanilla and plant milk. Add the ground flax seed and let stand for five minutes.

In another bowl, mix the flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon.

Mix the dry ingredients into the wet ingredients. Optionally fold in walnuts, pecans or chocolate chips.

Pour into the loaf pan. Slice the third banana lengthwise and place both halves on top.

Bake for 45–50 minutes until golden brown. Cool for ten minutes before slicing. Serve as is, or with jam or Lotus Biscoff spread.